Agniveer aspirants spend night on streets

Lack of affordable accommodation or reluctance to spend just for one night?

Mysuru, June 4 (GA&BCT)- Hundreds of candidates appearing for the Agniveer (Technical) Army recruitment online examination at Hebbal in Mysuru have been forced to sleep on roads at night due to a lack of affordable accommodation around Hebbal area.

Others who could afford accommodation told Star of Mysore that most of the affordable stay options are located within Mysuru city and its surrounding areas. They said that if they chose to stay there, they would also have to incur additional travel expenses to reach the examination centre, which is located at a considerable distance.

The Agniveer recruitment rally has been underway in Mysuru since June 1 and will continue till June 12. While candidates are able to access food at local eateries, there are no arrangements for overnight stay, leaving many aspirants in difficult conditions.

In the absence of designated rest facilities, candidates have been seen sleeping on pavements in Hebbal and surrounding areas, including near garbage bins and roadside shrubs. Several aspirants said, the lack of basic amenities, particularly toilets, has made their stay extremely difficult.

The situation has also raised concerns among residents and civic groups over the lack of sanitation arrangements for candidates staying outdoors.

BABU'S BANTER

By M.V. Nagendra Babu

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

THE QUESTION IS 'WHO AM I?': The first question that a philosophically inclined person should ask himself or herself is this — "Who am I?" It may seem that the answer to this is simple. But it is not, said Paravastu Varadarajan in a discourse. A man may say he is an author. As an author, he will have certain goals. Maybe he wants to write a bestseller. He may work towards that goal. But the same man is also someone's son, brother, husband, father. What about these identities? Are the goals in each of these roles the same? Obviously, they cannot be. A son has to look after his aged parents. A man must be an understanding husband. As a father, he must provide for his children. As a brother, he must help his siblings, if they need help. So, who is this 'I'? The body that we have dies and till then we have this idea of 'I.' So does that mean the body is this 'I'? It cannot be. We may say, "This is my body." But that does not make us identical with the body. A man also says, "This is my book. This is my car." Does this mean, he and his book or car are one and the same? How then can the body be identical with him?

The atma existed before it was assigned a body and continues even after the body perishes. This realisation is the first step in any philosophical pursuit. The next question is, "Why should we know that the body is not the atma?" If we think the atma is the body, then we will not bother about dharma. We will just look at ways of living comfortably on this earth and never think beyond that. But if you know that the atma is not the body, then you will know that there will be many births. Who knows what problems you will face in those births? That thought will make us adhere to dharma and also to seek moksha. There is a limit to the span of a human body. But an atma is never destroyed.

98-year-old is world's oldest wing walker

Cambridge: A 98-year-old World War II veteran officially became the world's oldest wing walker when he stood atop a flying plane in England. Harry Heasman spent more than 9 minutes atop the plane at a height of over 1,000 feet on Saturday at Duxford Airfield in Cambridge.

A Guinness World Records adjudicator was on hand to officially certify Heasman as the world's oldest wing walker.

The nonagenarian said he spent 11 months working with a physical trainer to get his body and mind ready for the attempt. His record attempt raised money for the Lennox Children's Cancer Fund and served as a tribute to his wife and son, who both died after battles with cancer.

Wonder Woman fan has largest collection

Cedartown: A woman paid tribute to her favourite super hero by amassing world's largest collection of Wonder Woman memorabilia: 1,581 items.

Guinness World Records announced Cedartown resident Aleshia Wiley's collection of memorabilia, including comic books, Funko Pop figurines, action figures, specialty toys and branded merchandise, officially took the title with 1,581 items.

Wiley said that she fell in love with the character watching the Justice League animated series in the early 2000s and added that Wonder Woman stands for female empowerment.

"Wonder Woman is a beacon of hope for girls and women everywhere, and a reminder that we need to support one another more. Over the years, her character has evolved alongside new generations, but one thing has always stayed the same: women can do anything, and together we are unstoppable. She always stood her ground, was quick witted and carried herself with strength and compassion," she said.

Horrendous experience at Metagalli Police Station

Sir,

This refers to the news item titled "Cops pat their own back!" published in Star of Mysore dated June 2.

Thank you for highlighting the issue of 'Lok Spandana,' a system under which citizens are expected to scan a QR code at a Police Station and provide feedback on the services rendered. It is indeed concerning if the process is being operated by Police personnel themselves.

I had a similar experience last year at Metagalli Police Station when my husband and I visited the station regarding a dispute with my in-laws. A woman Police officer asked for feedback and entered details herself, recording it as a positive experience.

Ironically, while she stated that the Police do not accept bribes, my husband was taken to another room by officials and asked to pay Rs. 2,000 to settle what was a minor dispute.

The entire experience was deeply disappointing and has left me reluctant to approach the Police Station for assistance in the future.

I appreciate Star of Mysore for bringing this issue to public attention and initiating a much-needed discussion on the credibility of such feedback mechanisms.

Greener Yadavagiri...

Residents hold meeting; resolve to plant over 2,000 saplings to enhance green cover

Residents holding a meeting at Yadavagiri Park in city recently.

Mysuru, June 4 (PM&BS)- Ahead of World Environment Day slated for tomorrow (June 5), the residents of Yadavagiri have resolved to plant over 2,000 saplings and nurture them.

This was decided at a meeting of Yadavagiri residents convened at a park in the locality recently, under the Chairmanship of Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) Working President S.K. Dinesh. Over 80 residents of the locality attended the meeting.

Several other issues related to the locality were also discussed at the meeting.

The residents endorsed the proposal that was tabled to plant the saplings in open places within the locality, to further enhance the green cover. Sanjay Dattatri was named as the Coordinator of Tree Project and Ajit and Thammanna to coordinate with Dattatri.

During the meeting, a fruitful discussion on the maintenance of peepal trees in front of the houses was also held, following which, some advised to cut the roots by taking precautionary measures from affecting the structures.

MCC Health Inspector Harish Devaraj, who also took part in the meeting, sought the cooperation of the residents in maintaining cleanliness. He informed that, the practice of imposing spot fine on those littering waste in public places has helped in bringing down the habit of throwing waste in public.

It was brought to the notice of the MCC Health Inspector about uncontrolled disposal of waste near Anand Vihar. The MCC official, in his reply requested the residents to give thermocol-like waste articles to garbage collectors, to prevent the incidents of setting them on fire in public places. He assured action against disposing used furniture like sofa, beds and commodes on footpaths. Waste will be collected from the parks in the locality too, he added.

The residents decided to complain to the Police about unabated noise pollution by playing loud music and bursting fire crackers in public. Another complaint will be lodged with Vani Vilas Water Works (VVWW) officials to chalk out permanent solution to check incidents of sewage overflow from manholes during rain.

To encourage the participation of more residents in the next meeting, a decision was taken to organise lunch on June 15 and host a music programme by locality artistes. Dr. Rajeshwar, gave his consent to head the Food Committee.

Sanjay Dattatri, the Tree Project head, explained about 'Mysuru Environment Festival.' MGP Founder-Member Bhamy V. Shenoy and others were present.

Rein in land grabbers eyeing Govt. assets: Farmer leaders tell Tahsildar

Mysuru, June 4 (MK&BS) - Farmer leaders of the district have appealed to the Revenue Department officers to rein in land grabbers, who have been targeting Government lands by forging land records.

Participating in a meeting convened by Tahsildar K.M. Mahesh Kumar, to hear the grievances of farmers, at the auditorium of Mysuru Taluk Office in Nazarbad here yesterday, the farmer leaders demanded action against land grabbers within the ambit of law.

District General Secretary of Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha P. Marankaiah said, the number of liquor vends is increasing in the taluks and remain open throughout the day. The hard-earned money of daily wagers is going to liquor outlets. The Fair Price Shops at rural areas open only thrice a week, leaving consumers in a fix. The food grains should be distributed at least for 20 days in a month, he urged.

District Secretary of Sugarcane Growers Association Baradanapura Nagaraj brought to notice the vacancy of doctors at Government Hospitals in the taluk areas.

The patients are met with cold response, as they are forced to wait till the arrival of doctors. Fed up over the prolonged delay of doctors in attending to them, the patients are forced to travel to the city to avail treatment, he said, demanding action to take corrective measures.

Taluk President of Sugarcane Growers Association Anandur Prabhakar complained that, there is a discrepancy in supply of sowing seeds and fertilisers by Agriculture Department. Besides, the Horticulture Department officials have failed to reach the subsidies provided by the Government to farmers.

Farmer leaders Jagadish Surya, Naganahalli Chandrashekar, Ankappa Nagaraj, Shivanna and others were present.

DECODING MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Vishnu's art of attracting fortune

In Indian mythology, Vishnu is described as the beloved of Lakshmi. His names are Sri-vallabha, beloved of fortune and Sri-nivasa, abode of fortune. In art, the goddess is shown residing in his heart or seated by his side. When he reclines, she is at his feet. This pairing is a metaphor. It explains why some leaders naturally attract opportunities while others struggle. Lakshmi follows Vishnu because Vishnu embodies the qualities that fortune favours.

The first quality is balance. Vishnu reclines on a serpent and rides an eagle. The snake represents the ground reality, the tactical view, the daily struggle. The eagle represents the strategic view, the big picture, the long horizon. Most leaders fall into one camp — either overly tactical or overly strategic. Vishnu holds both. He can see the forest and the tree. Lakshmi gravitates to those who can manage both detail and vision. The serpent and the eagle are natural enemies. Those who think tactically usually fail to see the strategy and those who think long-term forget short-term goals. Vishnu balances both.

The second quality is adaptability. In different eras, Vishnu appears as Ram or Krishna. Ram is in Treta Yuga and Krishna in Dwapara Yuga. Ram's era is more stable than Krishna's. Ram has to deal with enemies who break rules while Krishna has to deal with people who manipulate the system and pretend to follow rules. Ram follows rules, upholds order and flourishes in a stable market where consistency matters. Krishna bends rules, navigates chaos and thrives in a volatile market where innovation is essential. Leaders who cling to one style often fail when circumstances shift. Vishnu adapts and Lakshmi flows towards those who adapt with intelligence rather than panic.

The third quality is integration. Vishnu unites rivals. He gets the Devas and the Asuras to churn the ocean of milk for its treasures. The Devas do not share the treasures and so get trapped in an endless cycle of war. In his imagery, the serpent and eagle — natural enemies — coexist. This symbolises the ability to make competing interests collaborate. In any organisation, departments fight for budgets, teams compete for credit and egos clash. The leader who can get rivals to work together becomes a magnet for opportunity. Lakshmi follows unity, not conflict. A good leader is able to harness the tension between competing groups, get them to help rather than hurt each other.

The fourth quality rests in Vishnu's four hands, which represent four leadership actions. The shankh or conch, stands for communication. A leader must speak clearly and repeatedly so that the team knows what to do. The chakra stands for review — constant monitoring and feedback. The gada stands for discipline — enforcing standards and consequences. The lotus stands for appreciation — recognising good work. Two actions are pleasant, two are painful, but all are necessary. Leaders who practice all four hold Lakshmi close.

The fifth quality is resilience. Vishnu lies on the ocean during pralaya, the cosmic flood. He rests even when the world collapses. This symbolises calm in crisis. Leaders who remain steady, who do not lose their mind when circumstances deteriorate, inspire confidence. Lakshmi prefers calm seas, not choppy waters.

Vishnu does not chase Lakshmi. He attracts her. Through balance, adaptability, integration, discipline, communication and appreciation, he becomes her natural home. In the corporate world, titles and designations do not bring fortune; temperament and behaviour do. A leader who thinks like Vishnu becomes the chosen companion of Lakshmi.

Area residents have questioned whether the issue stems from a lack of affordable accommodation or a reluctance among candidates to spend on a single night's stay.

They have called for at least dormitory-type accommodation, saying basic facilities such as toilets and bathing spaces are necessary. They said, leaving candidates to manage hygiene needs in public spaces is neither practical nor right.

More than 800 candidates from different parts of Karnataka, including Dharwad, Bagalkot, Vijayapura, Belagavi and other districts of north Karnataka, are taking part in the recruitment process.

Search for toilets

An aspirant from Vijayapura said that the conditions had been difficult despite his ambition to join the Army. "We've all been sleeping on the road. There are no proper facilities and we have to wake up at 5 am just to find a toilet," he said, requesting anonymity.

The online examinations are being conducted at TCS iON Digital Zone in Hebbal Industrial Area near Bharat Cancer Hospital signal junction. Tests are held in four batches daily at 8.30 am, 11.30 am, 2.30 pm and 6.30 pm.

Some candidates said, they are unable to afford paid accommodation and have no option but to sleep on footpaths or outside closed shops after business hours.

"I got completely wet during the rain two days ago. There was nowhere to take shelter, so we had to stand in front of shops," said a candidate from Bagalkot, adding that he had brought a blanket and bedsheet from home.

Sources said that while accommodation is usually provided for physical recruitment rounds, no such arrangements have been made for the online examination segment this time.

Media access to the exam centre was restricted and officials were not available for comment.

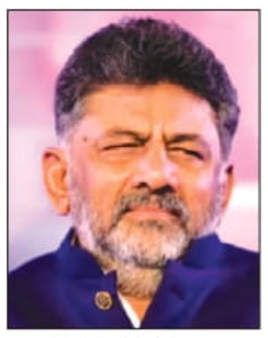
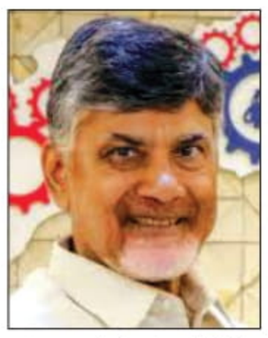
Karnataka CM is India's richest CM

Bengaluru, June 4 (Agencies)- With the elevation of D.K. Shivakumar (DKS) as Karnataka CM, he has emerged as India's richest sitting CM in terms of declared assets, overtaking his Andhra Pradesh counterpart N. Chandrababu Naidu.



D.K. Shivakumar



Chandrababu Naidu

C. Joseph Vijay

The 64-year-old Shivakumar has declared a net worth of over Rs. 1,413 crore. He surpasses Naidu, whose declared assets stand at about Rs. 931 crore, while Tamil Nadu Chief Minister C. Joseph Vijay follows with assets of over Rs. 640 crore.

According to his 2023 Karnataka Assembly election affidavit, Shivakumar's total declared assets stand at around Rs. 1,413 crore, up from Rs. 840 crore in 2018. His holdings include movable assets worth Rs. 1,140 crore and immovable properties valued at Rs. 273 crore, against liabilities of about Rs. 265 crore.

Known for his high-profile public image, the affidavit also lists luxury watches, gold & silver holdings and a Toyota Qualis as his registered vehicle. He has declared ownership of luxury timepieces from brands such as Rolex and Hublot, along with significant bullion holdings.

Legal cases against Shivakumar

Shivakumar continues to face legal scrutiny in multiple cases, the most prominent being an Income Tax (IT) case linked to 2017 searches, during which officials reportedly recovered Rs. 8.59 crore from multiple locations. The IT Department has alleged that Shivakumar operated an extensive network of persons and premises across Delhi and Bengaluru to manage and utilise unaccounted cash. Following a chargesheet filed in a Bengaluru Special Court for economic offences, the Enforcement Directorate (ED) registered a money laundering case.

He was arrested by the ED in 2019 and spent 50 days in Tihar Jail before being released on bail. That same year, the then BJP-led Karnataka Government granted consent to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) to probe allegations of Disproportionate Assets under the Prevention of Corruption Act.

After the Congress returned to power in 2023, the State Government withdrew the consent and transferred the case to the Karnataka Lokayukta.

The Karnataka High Court later dismissed the CBI's challenge to the withdrawal, directing the agency to approach the Supreme Court. The CBI subsequently moved the Apex Court in 2024. Meanwhile, the Supreme Court quashed the ED's money laundering proceedings linked to the case.

Land denotification

Another case that may continue to follow Shivakumar is the Benniganahalli denotification matter. He is accused of purchasing 4.2 acres of notified land in violation of provisions of the Karnataka Land Reforms Act.

BJP leader and former CM B.S. Yediyurappa, who denotified the land, was also named in the case and faced a Lokayukta chargesheet. Karnataka High Court quashed proceedings in 2015. Petitioners later approached Supreme Court but withdrew their plea. Anti-corruption activist S.R. Hiremath has since filed a Special Leave Petition seeking revival of the case.

WORD OF THE DAY

Engender

Pronunciation: in-JEN-der (verb).
Meaning: Engender is a formal word that means "to be the source or cause of something."
Origin: A good paragraph about engender will engender understanding in the reader. Like its synonym generate, engender comes from the Latin verb generare, meaning "to generate" or "to beget," and when the word was first used in the 14th century, engender meant "propagate" or "procreate." That literal meaning having to do with creating offspring (which generate shared when it was adopted in the early 16th century) was soon joined by the "to cause to exist or develop, to produce" meaning most familiar to us today. Generare didn't just engender generate and engender; regenerate, degenerate and generation have the same Latin root. As you might suspect, the list of engender relatives does not end there. Generare comes from the Latin noun genus, meaning "origin" or "kind." From this source we took our own word genus, plus gender, general and generic, among other words.
Example: "... 'During a moment defined by anti-intellectualism, escapism, and AI tools that let you skip cognitive work entirely ... intellectual creators are doing something kind a counter cultural,' says Death To Stock's culture researcher Agus Panzoni. These influencers, who have already built established communities around intellectual pursuits, hold greater meaning and engender more trust ..." — Markiel Magsalin, Vogue, 15 April 2026.

THE ODD WORD

Eccrinology
Study of excretion.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Beat a dead horse

Meaning: You use the term 'Beat a dead horse' to indicate that some action or ongoing argument is useless.
Origin: The origin of the expression 'Beat a dead horse' comes from the mid-19th century, when the practice of beating horses to make them go faster was often viewed as acceptable. To beat a dead horse would be pointless, as it wouldn't be able to go anywhere. An early written form of this popular phrase is found in an 1859 issue of the London paper Watchman and Wesleyan Advertiser: "It was notorious that Mr. Bright was dissatisfied with his winter reform campaign and rumour said that he had given up his effort with the exclamation that it was like flogging a dead horse."
Example: "He already told you no; don't beat a dead horse."

QUOTE BOX

Don't try so hard to fit in and certainly don't try so hard to be different; just try hard to be you. — Zendaya
